Business Benefits

Microsoft Azure provides a wealth of services for running applications in the cloud. Choosing the right service whether it be infrastructure VMs or the Azure SQL Database platform service, can be tricky let alone deciding on the right way to implement the solution. Our AppFactory service helps you choose and execute the right strategy by focusing on requirements for the applications and business function they serve rather than treating them as just a collection of servers.

This application centric approach allows you to achieve quick wins through lift & shift of simple applications while also providing you the benefits of refactoring more complex applications to make the best use of Azure platform services.

New Signature's AppFactory

New Signature's AppFactory methodology is an iterative process for migrating, modernizing, replacing or retiring applications. It starts by discovering and categorizing your application estate to establish a priority level, and strategy for each application. After categorization, the strategy is implemented for each application in turn. Where maximum velocity is desired, multiple iterations can be running in parallel.

Whether you need to move five applications or five thousand, New Signature's AppFactory will get it done.

According to Gartner, the top reasons companies are investing in cloud solutions are to take advantage of IT modernization, cost savings, innovation, and agility.
